Take 86 A park worth conserving

The 61-hectare Hong Kong Wetland Park showcases the diversity of Hong Kong's wetland ecosystem and highlights conservation efforts to preserve them. In the far north of the New Territories, the park boasts a flexible theatre space with built-in audio-visual equipment that can hold between 25 and 200 guests when configured for MICE events. A nearby classroom attached to the ground floor Resource Centre seats 50 delegates.

As a corporate social responsibility initiative, the park offers the Outdoor Wetland Conservation Workshop to MICE groups. The workshop aims to encourage groups to take part in outdoor wetland conservation services. Guided by the park's staff and experienced volunteer workforce, the three-hour workshop include weeding, fertilising, clearing invasive exotic plants, tree planting and tree tending. Each workshop has a minimum of 25 participants and a maximum of 50 attendees.
